

GREEN COFFEE UNIVERSITY

El Volador

Beneficio Loma la Gloria

La Loma Gloria's story began when Anny Pimental's father bought the farm and named it after his grandfather's fruit farm. Relatively new to the coffee industry given most El Salvador's coffee growers have been doing it for generations. A visionary and a business person he installed a coffee mill in the farm but one of the coffee crisis struck and he decided not to run the mill and instead continue to grow coffee and selling the cherries to the local millers.

In 2012 Anny Pimental started working with her father on a plan to open a coffee shop but along the way, the plan changed and she started running the coffee mill. Anny Pimental's passion and love for coffee is her daily inspiration. "I feel proud of the coffee beans we grow, mill and export. Being able to take care of every step of the process to assure the quality and traceability of our beans."

The Cup: 86.8 pts.

Pepper vanilla, plum, winery, mid-high body.

COFFEE PROFILE

Country:

El Salvador

Region:

El Boqueron, San Salvador

Altitude:

1,200 - 1,839 m.

Species:

Arabica

Varietal:

Bourbon

Process:

Yellow Honey

LATORRE & DUTCH